

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to nonhuman transgenic animals in which the GP V gene has been modified. The invention is also useful for identifying agents that modulate the biological functions of GP V, including the screening and identification of potential therapeutic agents.

0975803.020501
T05020" E085260